

SANCTUARY LAMPS

In the late 4th century the Christian poet Prudentius described the experience of being in church:

Ceilings fretted with gold, gleam with brilliant light, Shed from pendulous lamps swaying on supple chains; The flame fed by the oil languidly swims about, Casting flickering rays through the translucent glass.

Centuries later, our churches gleam still with the light of lamps, a constant reminder that we are in the presence of God. In the book of Exodus, we hear how the people of God were asked to 'keep a flame burning perpetually' as a sign of prayer (Exodus 27: 19-20); a reminder to the faithful to turn to the Lord and there are a number of lamps which burn perpetually in our Church, in particular at the Main Altar and at the Altars of the Sacred Heart and Our Lady.

Would you like to light a sanctuary lamp in memory of a loved one or for a particular intention? The lamps burn for one week, always beginning on a Saturday evening, and the stipend is £10.
